Johnson. 1613.

*A Prognostication for this yeare of our Lord and Saviour Iesu Christ.
M.DC.XIII.*

Being the first from Leape yeare.

Written most especially for the Meridian of the famous Towne of Cochester in Essex, and will serue generally for all England.

Written and published by John Johnson, of Thorpe in Essex, according to the Rules of lawfull Art; being Student in Astronomic, and practitioner in Physicke.

Imprinted at London for the Companie of the Stationers.

1613.

To the Curious and Learned,
and not to the Envious, nor unlearned Readers.

GEntle and curious Reader, I haue heere this third time entred my selfe vpon the Worlds Stage, with a peecce of matter neuer to my knowledge dealt with in the like volurne; not commending, but rather condemning my selfe of too much folly and rashnesse, to meddle with a matter besyng onely the Learned; with promise of a further matter now almost fiaished in my handes, shortly to be published to the worlds eye: howsoeuer, of the curiositie it may be taken, yet I know the Learned, seeing me to performe my good-will therin, will peraduenture, set to their helping hand for the amendment of the same, for the further instruction of those, that are desirous to be acquainted with Calculation; a matter very hard, and necessary for the true accompt and computation of the times and seasons, and heretofore much in controvercie in the Church and Common wealth: and although it may seeme to differ farre from diuers Authors, yet if it differ not much from infayable obseruations, I would desire, it might passe so much the more free from envious tonges: But yet soone will say, peraduenture, I haue nought to write but what I haue stolne from other Authors. For that I answere; Few Writers are cleare of that kind of shett: but what I haue written, I must confess, I haue borrowed, and will not shane to speake the Authors name. Heere haue I done my good will; and although I chaine to misle a day in the judgement of the Ayre, Ile name my Authors, and let them in some sort abide the blame. It is an Art much taxed for lying, and the professors much scoffed at, which haith made me name my Author, who is holden at this day a reverent man, and one whose paines haith been incomparable, for the benefit of his Country, and the searching out of the trueth of the Art: and so I commit the Gentle and Sylent Reader, to the wisdom of the Almighty. Colchester this 30. of May. 1612.

John Johnson.

Of the Eclipses this yeare.

1613.

Here will happen (and be visibly seene) an Eclipse of the Moone the xviii day of October, which shall beginne at one a clocke and two minunes in the afternoon: At two a clocke and two minunes, shee shall be totally eclipsed and darkened: The middle of the Eclipse is at three a clocke and iii. minutes. Shee shall continue wholly eclipsed, from ii. a clocke and ff. minutes, untill iii. a clocke and xxii. minutes, and then recover her light: so that at v. a clocke and xii. minutes, shee shall fully recover her lost light. The whole time of her totall darkenes is one houre and xvi. minutes: her totall Eclipse doth houers iii. and iii. minutes: the partes eclipsed are: 2. 2. The very latter ende of this Eclipse will be onely seene with vs heere at Colchester. Those people of Traulours which dwall or traualle in Liuonia, Eu gria, and the greater part of Greece, may discerne the middle of this eclipse: but the Inhabitance of Ierusalem, Damaske, Syria, and the Isle of Cipresse, may see the beginning or ingresse of the moone into this eclipse. Edus much I thought good to note concerning this Eclipse, although wee shall not see it at home in our native Country: yet Traulours into those partes may obserue it, because as Gemma Frisius layth; By the Eclipses, the longitudes of Countreyes may be knowne or trulye found out.

A Prognostication.

A Description of the four Quarters of this yeare of our Lord God, 1613.

Of Winter. O. in ♑, ≈, ♋

Winter (according to our English account) beginneth in the yeare last past the xi day of December, at xii. a clocke and xii. minutes at noon, the Sunne then entering the first minute of Capricornus, making the shorkest day and longest night in the yeare: in which Quarter cold naturally reigneth, Snow and Raine fall often, Flouds of waters arise suddenly, and the Earth is boorded with an icye colde, the greatest part of lyving things bereft them to their Caues and denes: the ayre is thicke and barke, the strenght of Mens boordes is weakened and diminished: In this Quarter take more quantity of meate, and less of drame: meates hotte and dry are wholesome, the stomacke can well digest, take heed of the morning and evening cold, and goe warme and dry upon the h:ad and seatte, exercise the body strongly, Phlegme and Melancholy are now engendered and increased, and because winter is cold and moist, use meates hotte and dry. The Diseases subject to this Quarter, are these, of such like, Scabbes, Tetteres, Anotidian and Quarantine Agues, Tooth-ach, Rheumes, Hosptis, and Conghes.

Of the Spring. O. in v. & II.

The Spring (according to our English account) beginneth this yearre the 1. day of March at 11. a clocke and vi. minutes after noone, the Sunne then entring into the first minute of Aries, making the Equinoctiall, the dayes and nightes of equall length: Colde diminished and the poones of the Earth let loose; all living Creatures beginning to recover their strength lost, and the Earth to put on her new yearly ornaments: Beasts, fowles, and Birdes making their harmony; in this time of the Spring it is excellent good to take Puslike, to let blood, purge, and bathe, and to shake off winter iurments; wherefore resol to the Learned for counsell, as well to patient diseases like to ensue, as also to cure those that haue taken deepe root, and haue gotten the upper hand of Nature: for in this Quarter blood naturally hath dominion: Diseases and sicknesses proceeding ordinarily, are harte burning fevers, Plurilles, Apostumes, Squanaunc, hote Ulcers, Scabbes, Itch, Tooth-ach, and Head-ach.

Of Sommer. O. in $\textcircled{G}$ , $\textcircled{Q}$ $\textcircled{M}$ .

Sommer, according to our Astronomicall account, beginneth this Yeare, the 21. day of June at 1. a clocke and 55. minutes in the afternoone; at what time the Sunne entereth the first minute of Cancer, making his Sommer Solstitium, the longest day and shortest

lest night in the year: Heat then reigning, and small still Windes often stirring: the See for the most part calme and quiet, and all Fruites beginning to ware and typen; the body then vsires rather to drinke then to eate, whereby many dangerous Suckes are died by meanes of drinking ouer much, the body being exceeding hette; coole Hearbes are now wholesome in drinckes: yellow Choller raigneth, with much disposition to vomite, and dangerous to be herte or wounded, or to take Physick more then in any other quarter of the reare: The sickneses and diseases of this Quarter, are, Yellow-taundre, hotte burning Agues, Pustules, Scabbes, and Small-pockes, Fluxes, with other inmoderate purgations of the body.

Hecce

Heere followeth the Disposition of the Weather for every quarter of the Moone, through-out the yeare, according to the most forcible Aspects of the Planets.

Of Ianuarie.

Last Quarter the iij. day, at one a clocke and 27. minutes in the after noone: a cold Quarter with snow or sleette.

New Moone the x. day, about it. a clocke at night; this Quarter leasonable with some small showers.

First Quarter the xviii. day, x. minutes after midnight; faire weather.

Full Moone the xxvi. day, at vii. a clocke and 3. minutes in the morning: windie and showers of raine.

Of Februarie.

Last Quarter the first day, at x. a clocke and 14. min. at night: warme weather.

New Moone the ix. day, at two a clocke and 32. min. after noone:  $\Delta \square \wp$ , as Magnus sayth. Magnum tranquilitatem æris ad-duct.

First Quarter the xviii. day, at vi. a clocke and 30. min. at night: some small showers.

Full Moone the xxvi. day, at v. a clocke and 18. minutes at night:  $\square \wp$ , Veneros magnos semper mouet.

Of March.

Last Quarter the iii. day, at ix. a clocke and 14. min. in the fore-noone: this Quarter are three forcible Aspects for the alteration of the Aye, and almost upon the Equinoctiall, which are  $\wp \odot \wp$ , the  $\wp$  of  $\mathbb{h}$  and  $\wp$ ,  $\wp$  the  $\square \odot$  and  $\wp$ ; wherefore I would wish my Countermen and Friends, to note the effects: to see the truthe of Astrologie concerning the mutation of the Aye; the first (as sayth Magnus) maketh a turbulent and moyle aspect:

A Prognostication.

Ayre: the second, windie and moyst: and the third, tempestuous and stormie, with darknesse of the ayre.

New Moone the xi. day, at viii. a clocke and 33. minutes in the morning: cold and vasteadey weather.

First Quarter the xii. day, at ii. a clocke and 35. minutes in the fore-neone: loske to; some raging windes, and vasteadey cold weather.

Full Moone the xxii. day, at viii. a clocke and 45. minutes in the morning:

ning : tempestuous and hottē.
Last Quarter the xxix. day, at xi. a cloche at night : windē and dry.

Of July.

New Moone the vii. day, at vi. a cloche and 28. minutes after noone : fayre warnē weaþer.
First Quarter the viii. day, at one a cloche and 19. minutes after noone : hottē and tempestuous.
Full Moone the xi. day, at iii. a cloche and 53. min. after noone : somewhat windē and hottē.
Last Quarter the xxix. day, at iii. a cloche and 15. min. after noone : fayre weaþer.

Of August.

New Moone the vi. day, at vii. a cloche and 13. min. in the morning : fayre weaþer.
First Quarter the vii. day, at vi. a cloche & 31. min. after noone.
Full Moon: the x. day, at vi. a cloche and 23. min. in the morning.
Last Quarter the xviii. day, at ix. a cloche and vi. min. in the forenoon. Forasmuch as I find vii. very forcible Aspects in these last three Quarters of the Moone, I will say nothing, but defer them not to trust to the latter part of Harvest.

Of September.

New Moone the iii. day, 18. minutes after noone : hope for a fayre Quarter.
First Quarter the vi. day, at ii. a cloche and 32. min. in the morning : now begins Cleare weaþer.
